BEWARE OF THE BIG BAD WOLF

Recent reports of a large, wolf-like hedgebeast near the Summer Court territory has caused many members of our Freehold to fear entering the Hedge or using the local Trod. This has prevented hedge divers to harvest the fruits and caused a shortage. Members of the Summer Court have entered the Hedge in search of the beast, but its tracks often lead in circles or simply vanish.

Though the local Trod is fairly safe at most times, your Freehold Knight Defenders urge all Changelings to use the Trod only when absolutely necessary and to take someone along that can protect the group from attack.

The Knight Defenders want to take the opportunity to remind everyone in the Freehold that the Hedge is a dangerous place. Try to stay out of the Hedge and if you see the beast, tell a Knight Defender and under no circumstances should you try to track it or attack it alone.

BOGEYMAN DISCOVERED!

Good news for everyone concerning the Bogeyman case. Thanks to several members of our Freehold, the Bogeyman has been stopped. Unfortunately, he was killed during the confrontation and we cannot gather any more information about the crimes.

Dougherty, a Gristlegrinder and one of the Courtless, had been sneaking into the homes of mortals and stealing their children. He would open a door to the Hedge in the child's room and take them to his Hollow. What he did with them once there we will not go into. Suffice to say that it was a gruesome sight.

There were also reports of large hedgebeasts that looked like dogs in the area of Dougherty's Hollow. Please stay out of the area. There is still an ongoing investigation and the hedgebeasts have yet to be taken care of.

Could these large dogs be connected to the Big Bad Wolf?
